DELIGHTFUL EVENT AT SACRET HEART.

One of the most important and truly delightful events in the Sacred Heart and Mrs. F. J. life of 1915 was the class paper, given Clarence Guthrie. by the Third Academic Friday after Under a canopy of national colors the twelve young women took their places and for two hours entertained the faculty, students and guests with excellent and interesting talks, choosing for their subjects some phase of the Panama-Pacific exposition. To Miss Gunip fell the honor of striking the keynote of the program. Her paper entitled "A Peep at the Pan-ama Fair" was sprightly and so well given that all who heard her were filled with a desire to see in reality the wondrous enterprise she so ably pictured. From Miss Baum learned much of the exposition in gen-eral, her subject, though heavy, was eral, her subject, though heavy, was exceedingly interesting and well handled. The "Palace of Education and Social Economy" proved a fascinating subject when treated by Miss Cleary, who won equal applause for her piano solo "Evening Hour" by Kussner, "The Palace of Machinery and "The Palace of Metallurgy," subjects ordinarily dry to a general audience, were vital and interesting when presented by Miss Meighan. This young lady also merits praise for the young may also merits praise for the rendition of her piano solo—Wheep-ley's "Serenade." In her-quiet, easy way Miss Campbell conducted her audience through the "California Building" where during the exposition the Californian men and women "are at home" to the rest of the world Miss Lamb traced the construction of the exposition city and stamped deeply upon the minds of her hearers the enormity of this great undertaking. "The Palace of Fine Arts is a place of beauty, and a joy forever as pictured by Miss Peck, who lured her audience through the art halls and galleries and left them deeply impressed. Miss Keny displayed in-tellect in her capable handling of the two subjects: "The Palace of Horti-culture" and "The Palace of Manufacture and Various Industries."
